

Ring Back Tone Products

Take a few seconds to name the sounds you hear most often. The standard ring back tone is probably on your list. It's the sound you hear while waiting for someone to answer your phone call.

With over five billion telephone subscribers worldwide, you are not alone.

You, as a carrier or service provider, can make it possible for each of your customers to replace this annoying tone with a song or video of their choice or even their own making.

You transform the "dead" air time to callers waiting for an answer into a new and commercially attractive medium. By exploiting this medium, you improve customer satisfaction and earn from monthly subscription fees, content purchases, advertising, etc.

Contact us today and learn more about the revenue generating power of ring back tones.